Dear Ms Waters:

Enclosed is a copy of your letter sent 3-24-86 If you have your copies repaired by now, I would appreciate a copy from the Chenango Union

George W. Swetland was a brother of Charles Johnson Swetland. His records proved that their parents were Alanson & anna Swetland. On the "Chenango Co. History" 1880 Page 296 Charles I. Swetland of Treaing married Polly Youngs - daughter of John Youngs of Smithville Flats.

If you would have anything to add to that or can provide any more information on the Swetland's or Youngs it would be appreciated.

Please send a bill for what ever charges are involved and I'll send a check by return mail.

Thank You,

Hub Swetland

Dear Mr. Sweetland:

We researched for the obituary for George W. Sweetland who died December 19, 1985 as you requested in your letter of March 21, 1986.

As our reader-copier is out of order, we hope the following will suffice.

The Chenango Union (printed in Norwich, N.Y.)
Thursday - December 17, 1885

SWEETLAND - At the residence of his sister, Mrs. Hollis, on Guernsey Street, in this village, December 16th, Mr. George W. Sweetland, age 59 years.

We found also the following in Volume VI, page 290 of Mt. Hope Cemetery Records, Norwich, N.Y.

_____ Sweetland interred 1885 - Section A. (This must be George W.

After our copier is repaired, we will gladly mail you a copy if you still wish it.

We appreciate your very generous contribution and thank you very much.

Regarding the Sweetland family, we thought you might be interested in two items from Vital Records of Plymouth, New York (1837-1954).

1926 - March 21 - Frances A Sweetland died
1930 - June 3 - Mrs. Emeline Sweetland buried

In the History of Dryden, Tompkins County, we find on page 84 data relating to Bowen, James, George, Lafayette, Sarah and Lucinda Sweetland. Is this George W.?

If we can be of further assistance please do write us.

Very sincerely,

Doris W. Waters

Dear Mr. Sweetland:

We are enclosing the requested obituary for George W. Sweetland age 58 who died December 16, 1885.

We found John Youngs in the Smithville 1830 Census page 11 as follows:

Males: 1, under 5; 2, 5-10; 1, 10-15; 1, 50-60
Females 1, under 5; 2, 15-20; 1, 40-50

In Volume V page 167 of Cemetery Records, we find John Youngs died May 7, 1837 age 59 years. Jane, his wife died January 26, 1862, age 70 years. They are buried in the Old Cemetery, Smithville Flats, Town of Smithville. Also buried in this same cemetery were Cecelia Read Young, wife of Charles Young and Joseph Young.

Enclosed you will find a miscellaneous sheet of Sweetland census data. Did you send that to us? As it wasn't signed or dated we are unable to provide the source.

Sorry we are unable to assist you further. There will be no charge for the enclosed. Your previous generous donation more than covers the material and postage, etc.

Very sincerely,

TREAT

1. RICHARD[1] TREAT, son of Robert and Honour Trott, was born in Pitminster, Somerset, England, and baptized there 28 Aug. 1584; married in same place, 27 April 1615, Alice Gaylard, who was baptized 10 May 1594, daughter of Hugh Gaylard.

Richard Treat came to America probably about 1637 or 1638 and was certainly in Wethersfield, Conn., as early as 1639. In April, 1644, he was chosen Deputy, and was annually elected for 14 years, up to 1657-8; and he was a Magistrate or Assistant from 1658 to 1665. His name appears in the Charter of the Colony, which was granted 23 April 1662. He died between 11 October 1669 and 8 March 1669-70; his wife surviving him.

Their children, all baptized in Pitminster, England, were as follows:

i. HONOUR, bap. 19 Mar. 1615-16; m. Mr. John Deming.
ii. JOANNA, bap. 24 May 1618; m. Lieut. John Hollister.
iii. SARAH, bap. 3 Dec. 1620; m. Matthew Campfield.
iv. RICHARD, bap. 9 Jan. 1622-3; m. Sarah Coleman.
v. GOV. ROBERT, bap. 25 Feb. 1624-5; m. (1) Jane Tapp; (2) Mrs. Elizabeth (Powell) Bryan.
vi. ELIZABETH, bap. 25 July 1627; m. George Wolcott.
vii. SUSANNA, bap. 8 Oct. 1629; m. Lieut. Robert Webster. (See WEBSTER.)
viii. ALICE, bap. 16 Feb. 1631-2; buried 2 Aug. 1633.
ix. LIEUT. JAMES, bap. 20 July 1634; m. Rebecca Lattimer.
x. KATHERINE, bap. 29 June, 1637; m. Rev. William Thompson.

WEBSTER[1]

1. Gov. John[1] Webster was born in Warwickshire, England, and came to this country probably as early as 1633, and was first of Newtown (now Cambridge), Mass., but removed to Hartford, Conn., probably in 1636, where he was a most useful and influential citizen, being elected in 1637 to the General Court, as also in the following year, and as Magistrate or Assistant in 1639, which office he held until 1655, in which year he was Deputy Governor, the next year being elected Governor; he served in 1657 and the two following years as Chief Magistrate. His name is found on the list of those who agreed to remove from Hartford to Hadley, Mass., under date of 18 April 1659, to which place he went and where he was commissioned a Magistrate by the General Court of Mass., 30 May 1660. He died in Hadley 5 April 1661, his widow Agnes dying in 1667.

1666

Children of Gov. John and Agnes Webster were as follows:

i. Matthew, d. 16 July 1675, his wife having d. 11 Feb. 1656.
ii. William, d. about 1688; m. Mary Reeve.
2. iii. Lieut. Robert, d. about 31 May 1676; m. Susanna Treat.
iv. Thomas, d. about 1686; m. Abigail Alexander.
v. Anne, d. 9 June 1662; m. John Marsh. (See Marsh.)
vi. Elizabeth, m. as his second wife, William Markham.
vii. Mary, m. John Hunt.

2. Lieut. Robert[2] Webster (John[1]) settled in Middletown, Conn., and, upon the organization of the town in September 1651, was chosen Recorder. Coincident with this was his marriage in 1652 to Susanna Treat, daughter of Richard Treat and Alice Gaylard, and his settlement in Middletown Upper Houses, where some of his children were born. He was Deputy from Middletown to the General Court in 1653 to 1658, in which latter year he removed to Hartford, where he died about the last day of May 1676, as he was buried 2 June 1678. His widow survived him many years, dying in 1705, the inventory of her estate being dated 19 Nov. 1705. He was confirmed as a Lieut. at a General Court of Elections held 18 May 1654 and bore this title for the rest of his life. "Savage" says he was "on service in the war of 1675."

PREFACE.

Having during the last twenty-five years collected from various sources considerable information in regard to the Litchfield branch of the Webster family, I thought best to have it printed in order to better preserve and transmit to future generations this record of descent from the years 1635 to the present time. The source of my information in most cases is given in the following pages.

A. W. WEBSTER.

NEW HAVEN, CT., 1900.

The Fifth Colonial Governor of Connecticut.

JOHN WEBSTER and his wife Agnes came to this country from Warwickshire, England, in the Spring of the year 1635, and settled at Cambridge, Mass. During the year a company of about one hundred was organized for the purpose of traveling across the country to found a colony on the banks of the Connecticut river. The following account of this journey, taken from Hollister's History of Connecticut, is quite interesting, when we stop and think that the same distance can be traveled now in three or four hours :

Hollister says, "About the beginning of June, 1636, Mr. Hooker, Mr. Stone, Mr. Webster, and about one hundred men, women and children, set out upon the long-contemplated journey. Over mountains, through swamps, across rivers, fording some, crossing others upon rudely constructed rafts, with the compass to point out their irregular way, slowly they moved westward, driving their flocks and herds before them, the strong supporting the weak, the old caring for the young; with hearts cheerful as the month slowly they m ved on. Mrs. Hooker was ill and was borne upon a litter. A stately, well ordered journey it was, for gentlemen of fortune and rank were of the company, and ladies who had been delicately bred and who had known little of trial or hardship until now. * * * At the end of about two weeks they reached the land almost fabulous to them—the valley of the Connecticut."

Quoting further from Hollister's history he says : "The first English planters of Connecticut were of no vulgar origin. * * * The planters, the substantial land holders who began to plant in the wilderness, sprung from the better classes, and a large proportion of them were from the landed gentry of England." Again he says : "I believe that there is hardly a man living whose descent can be traced to the early planters of Connecticut, who will not be found to be derived through one branch or another of his pedigree, from the families who

In those early days of the colony labor and toil was looked upon with the greatest respect. Hollister says, "Governor Webster and Governor Wells, if they did not labor with their own hands, taught their sons to toil."

Benjamin Trumbull in his history of Connecticut says, "For twenty years Mr. John Webster had been annually chosen into the magistracy of Connecticut, being elected Governor in 1656. At the election in Hartford, May 17th, 1655, Thomas Wells was elected Governor and John Webster Deputy Governor. At the election in 1656 John Webster was elected Governor and Thomas Wells Deputy Governor. At the election in 1657 John Winthrop was elected Governor, Thomas Wells Deputy Governor, and John Webster Chief Magistrate. Mr. Webster removed to Hadley, Mass., in 1659."

J. Hammond Trumbull, L. L. D., in his Memorial History of Hartford County, says: Hadley, Mass., which then included the present towns of Hadley, Amherst, Granby, Hatfield and South Hadley, was a direct outgrowth from Hartford, Conn., assisted by Wethersfield. It was started by a strong body of able men, who had become uneasy with the long debate and strife in the First church in Hartford. Mr. Webster and Mr. Russell, of Wethersfield, appear to have been the leaders in the settlement of Hadley, Mass. * * * * John Webster was an original proprietor of Hartford, and his home lot, in 1639, was on the east side of the street now called Governor Street. Mr. Webster was one of the committee who for the first time sat with the Court of Magistrates, in 1637.  He was one of the committee who framed the code of criminal laws for the colony in 1642, was a commissioner for the united colonies in 1654, was an influential member in the church in Hartford, and was one of the leaders of the Hadley company, moving to Hadley in 1659, where he died, April 5th, 1661."

The following article, signed "Historious," taken from the Hartford Courant of October 25th, 1845, will make a fitting ending to this historical sketch of the life of John Webster:

Sometimes it yields to the file of the antiquarian, and the doors of the past swing wide open, and we see clearly. Sometimes this rust defies the file, and labor retreats defeated and disappointed. Sometimes we find but a crevice opened out from the rubbish of years, from which to catch glimpses of what was and has been done. It is through such a crevice, reader, now, that we open on the biographic dwelling of the fifth Governor of Connecticut, John Webster. Small is the light to shine in upon its apartments, and disclose their conformation and their contents. Still this light will enable us to see something, shades of what was if not the substance; figures at least of some of life's furniture, if not the furniture itself. Perhaps the household place, the heart of the indweller, may reflect somewhat to our eyes. Let us take a peep!

John Webster was one of the original settlers and founders of Connecticut. He was from Warwickshire in England, and his name appears among our earliest records, dignified with the then imposing prefix of Mr.—a prefix with which only ten gentlemen besides himself, out of the one hundred and fifty-three original settlers, were honored. The ordinary title of address at this period was Goodman, or Goodwife, or Goodwoman, often contracted into Goody, or Neighbor. Clergymen, magistrates, doctors, schoolmasters—those who being freemen had received a second degree at college, and after a while eminent merchants, military captains, and captains of vessels, and sometimes the mates of the vessels—these were all addressed as Mr. and their wives each as Mrs., but many years elapsed ere the distinction of rank and title to which the first settlers were accustomed in the parent country disappeared from their colonial life. Their chief men who emigrated with means and rank of distinction in England were looked up to by the people in general with something of awe and without familiarity—a circumstance which at that period does not seem in the least to have impaired their influence. Now-a-days these distinctions won't do; everybody claims a respectful handle to his name, and properly so if he behaves himself.

Squires and Colonels are as thick as blackberries, and if greatness ever attempts to walk on stilts it is sure, in our political world, to tumble.

Mr. Webster was very early elevated to official position in the Colony. He was elected magistrate in 1637, and with the exception of a single year, was annually elected to this office till 1660. In 1654 he was one of the Commissioners of the United Colonies, and in 1655 was Deputy Governor and in 1656 Governor of the Colony.

During this whole period he was active in the administration of the government, and associated as adviser and counsellor in many important movements. The duties to which in former articles we have called attention, those of deciding controversies about bounds, or arbitrating on lands, of distributing estates, of auditing the accounts of the treasury, and of answering petitions, Mr. Webster, prior to his election as Governor, is frequently directed by the General Court to discharge. He was one of the committee appointed in 1639 to confer with New Haven in relation to the murderous attacks from the Indians at Middletown, and he bore the banner of war against the haughty and insulting Sowheag when our sister of Quinnipiac turned her face from it, and her milder counsel prevailed. The New England Congress employed him in 1649 "to set forth on the towns" soldiers and ammunition for an expedition against the Indians. For similar expeditions he was at other times chosen "to press men and ammunition," or appointed one of the advisers with whom the constables of each town were "to take advise in the pressing of men." In 1645 he was appointed by the General Court with others to examine and arrange "all particular and several charges of the late war" with the Narragansetts "and for the support of Uncas," of which charges they directed to cause the constables of Hartford to bring in a full account. When it was determined to provide a frigate of ten or twelve guns to defend the coast of Long Island against the Dutch and Ninigrate, he was one of the Committee "to treat with the owners of the frigate, and agree with them for the use of the same." In the matter of the agreement with Mr. Fenwick and the impost duty at the mouth of the river he was frequently called to act, and also

He made journeys as magistrate to the seaside and elsewhere to administer justice. He was employed in drawing up correspondence with friends of the colony in England. He surveyed the highway between Hartford and Windsor and overlooked its "amendment." He was one of the committee who purchased and disposed of Simsbury. At times he aided in drawing up abstracts of grievances to be presented to the New England Congress for its deliberation. In 1640 he acted on a committee curious and peculiar for the indication it gives of the times as any which we have noticed. He was appointed with Mr. Phelps "to consult with the elders of both plantations" to prepare instructions against the next General Court for the punishment of the sin of lying, "which," says the Record, "begins to be practiced by many people in this commonwealth." What a singular tribute to the virtue of the time, that the sin of lying did not begin in Connecticut till 1640! Five years of uninterrupted truth-telling. When shall be found elsewhere a page of history halcyon as this!

As a member of the New England Congress of 1654, Mr. Webster was called to delibrate on a new expedition against Ninigrate, upon the difficulties of New Haven with Deleware Bay, upon plans for "the better passage of the gospel among the Indians," for the education of some of them at Cambridge College, and for the extension and repair of the buildings of this institution. What a singular union of objects in relation to the same class of persons! In one hand the sword, in the other the Bible and the arts of peace! The Indian is at the same time to be attacked, to be Christianized, and to be made a "scoller of" at Cambridge! To several letters and sets of instructions for these purposes the name of John Webster is in every instance signed, and the correspondence with the Swedish Governor of Delaware Bay supposes him and his colleagues to be scholars themselves, for the letter addressed to them is written in Latin.

Mr. Webster as Governor—but before we speak particularly of his administration, it is well, as we have space in this biography for the purpose, to give the reader an exact idea of this office as it was under the Constitution of 1639, differing as it did very materially from this office now. In the first place then the incumbent must have been a magistrate, and was to be a freeman, and always a member of some "appointed congregation." His election was by ballot, by the greatest number of votes, given on the second Thursday in April in each year by all who had been admitted freemen and had taken the oath of fidelity, and "did cohabit with this jurisdiction." The convention for this purpose was held at Hartford, and the General Court had a session at the same time and chose one or more persons to tell the voters who were sworn "to be faithful therein." Immediately upon his election, which was for one year, and which until 1660 could not be made of the same person but once in two years, the Governor appeared before the General Assembly, and there took the following solemn and characteristic oath:

"I, A. B., being now chosen to be Governor within this jurisdiction, for the year ensuing, and until a new one be chosen, do swear by the great and dreadful name of the ever living God to promote the public good and peace of the same, according to the best of my skill, and also will maintain all lawful privileges of this Commonwealth, and also that all wholesome laws that are or shall be made by lawful authority here established be duly executed, according to the rule of God's word--so help me God in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ."

This imposing oath states generally the power and duties of the Governor, viz: To promote the public good, maintain all lawful privileges, and duly execute the laws. In addition to these it was his duty particularly by himself or his secretary, to issue his summons to the constables of each town for the calling of the two General Assemblies. Upon special occasions, with the advice and special consent of the major part of the magistrates, he was to summon them within fourteen days warning, or if urgent necessity required upon a shorter notice, stating the reasons in his warrant. When met it was his duty to preside over them, convening as all the branches did in one body, and he had power "to order the Court to give liberty of speech, and to silence unreasonable and disorderly speakings, and to put all things to vote, and in case the vote was equal to give himself a casting vote." The Governor was also at the same time a Magistrate, and in this capacity with his colleagues held Particular Courts, over which he presided, now at one place and now at another, having power to administer justice according to the rule of his oath established, and "for want thereof according to the word of God." In addition to this the Governor was most generally appointed to serve as one of the Commissioners of the United Colonies, and to act upon important committees, and to manage the chief correspondence of the Colony, and to act as principal adviser in all emergencies. For these various and numerous duties he received no pecuniary compensation till the year 1647 when "by reason of his many weighty occasions, expenses and chardges," it was ordered that there should be "yearly allowed to that place £30," which was the first salary granted to any civil officer in the service of the Colony.

Thus then the Governor of our state in old times was at once Chief Executive Office, Speaker of the House, Chief Justice, Chief Scribe, Chief Magistrate, and Chief Counsellor! What would be thought now of such a union of powers and duties? Constitutional liberty in modern times rests chiefly on the division and separation of legislative, judicial and executive authority, Let one intrude for an instant on either of the others, and freedom flutters as if it had received a wound, and the pillars of government seem toppling over an abyss, and the eloquence of a whole nation bursts forth in alarm. We are now in civil and political matters all machinery, all checks and balances, all caution, all distrust. The age of confidence has wholly passed. That was the iron age of our ancestors. It was the age of Connecticut under its first Civil Constitution. It was the age of Haynes, and Hopkins, and Wyllys, and Wells, and it was the age also of John Webster, the subject of our present biography, to whom we are now prepared to return, with your means reader, for appreciating him improved, we trust, by this short digression on the office to which, in 1656, he was called by the united vote of the Freemen.

The year of his administration was one uncommonly free from Indian disturbances. With the exception of an act which was passed forbidding the sale to any Indian of any horse or mare, or boat or rigging, its legislation has no connection with tomahawks and scalping knives, but relates to matters purely civil, among which is addition to regulations about the sale of spirituous liquors, and playing with dice or cards, and about swine "from whose unruliness damage doth accrue," we notice some curious orders with regard to butchers and "the mystery of tanning" as it is called in the records and one order which shows that whatever it may have been with the sin of lying, the sin of theft, and the theft of wolves, had made some progress in the colony, for it is ordered "that what person soever, either Indians, or English, shall take any wolves in, whereby they would defraud the right owner of their due from the town or county, every such offender to pay 10s. to the owner of the pit, or to be whipped on their naked bodies not exceeding six stripes." The general quiet that prevailed during the year of Governor Webster's administration is fully indicated by the appointment this year of a thanksgiving, to be celebrated, says the record, on account of "the general concurrences of many mercies." From all this we may conclude that Governor Webster discharged all his duties to the full acceptance of the colony, and when we reflect on the extent of responsibility attached to his office, as already described, it will justify the belief that he was a man of high personal integrity and prudence.

There was another matter, however, which came before this General Court, in which Governor Webster was peculiarly active, and which was the foundation of his subsequent relinquishment of Hartford as his place of residence—we refer to the ecclesiastical difference of the period. For several years these had been ripening, till at last not only the Church at Hartford, in which they had their origin, but the whole colony and the whole of New England was torn and distracted by their agitation. They turned chiefly on the points of baptism, church membership, on the form of church government, whether Congregational or Presbyterian, consociated or synodical, and on the right of members of a parish who were not at the same time members in full communion with the church to have a voice in the election of ministers and in the general management of the church. Governor Webster, in company with elder Wm. Goodwin, Mr. Cullick, and a number of others who were known at this period as Withdrawers, advocated the Congregational form and the strictest construction of doctrines, denying baptism to any except the children of church members in full communion, and excluding all such church members from participating in the choice of a minister and in the general regulation of the church. In this he stood opposed to Mr. Stone, the minister, to a majority of the congregation, and to the General Court. He was always, however, though firm, courteous and sincere in his opposition, the belief being deepened in his mind that he was sustaining the primitive faith and purity of the churches, and the unchanging ecclesiastical practice of the First Settlers. Accordingly in debates which occurred in the General Court during the year in which he was Governor, we find him taking part, and after it had been decided that certain ecclesiastical questions should be debated at Boston, and provision had been made for the "comely and honorable attendance" of the Elders going there, and when it was proposed to call an additional religious Council at Hartford, we find it entered on record "the Governor did personally express himself desiring that the old sad differences in the Church of Christ might be healed, but withheld his vote." He seems to have had little faith in the decisions of Synods and Councils, and not without reason in this instance, since in spite of the many that were convened the breach in the church at Hartford was not healed, but grew wider and wider till 1659, about two years after he had ceased to be Governor, though he still held the office of Assistant, Governor Webster, with fifty-eight other persons from Hartford and Wethersfield, removed to Hadley in Massachusetts.

The agreement for their removal, for "transplanting themselves and families to the plantation purchased on the east side of the River Connecticut, beside Northampton," dated Hartford, April 18th, 1659, at the house of Goodman Ward, is on record at Hadley, and the name of Webster stands at the head of the list. The tract of land which they purchased included the present towns of Hadley, Amherst, South Hadley and Granby, on the east side of the Connecticut River, and Hatfield and a part of Williamsburgh on the west side. Governor Webster went early in May, 1659, to assist in preparing the settlement, and lodged at Northampton. He was skilled in the management of town business, as is evident from his frequent connection with it while living in Hartford, having been here frequently appointed to divide and allot lands, and supervise the erection of bridges and mills, and the building of galleries and a porch for the meeting house, and the repair of roads. One of his first employments at Hadley seems to have been in laying out new roads, streets and home lots. His own home lot there was on the west side of the street about eighty rods north of the old road to Northampton, and next north of that of his friend, Elder Wm. Goodwin. Soon after he first reached Northampton he was taken severely sick, and in anticipation of death made his will, which is dated the twenty-fifth of June, 1659, and is recorded in the Probate Court of Hampshire County. "I, John Webster," he says in his solemn opening paragraph, "late of Hartford in the jurisdiction of Connecticut, being weak of body, yet sound of mind, imprimis commit my soule into the hands of the Almighty and Most Merciful, hoping to be saved by the alone merits of the Lord Jesus Christ, being washed with His blood, and clothed with His righteousness, and sanctified by the Holy Ghost—Amen. My body I also bequeath to the earth, to be interred with comely burial (if at this time I be taken out of this world) in some part of the new plantation on the east side of the river against Northampton." From this sickness, however, he recovered, but not to survive long, for on the fifth of April, 1661, after active exertion in behalf of the settlement, and the discharge, in company with John Pynchon and Samuel Chapin, of the duties of a judge in courts held alternately at Northampton and Springfield, he expired, his being the second death in the new plantation. He gave directions in his will, it may have been noticed, for his burial at Hadley, and there, undoubtedly, on the neck of the peninsula formed by the winding Connecticut, and overlooking the magnificent gorge between Holyoke and Mount Tom, the remains of the fifth governor of Connecticut now rests. The affection of one of his descendants, Dr. Noah Webster, has marked the spot with a monument, which tells the bystanders that it was erected "to the memory of John Webster, Esq., one of the first settlers of Hartford in Connecticut, who was many years a magistrate or assistant, and afterwards Deputy Governor and Governor of that Colony, and in 1659, with his three sons, Robert, William and Thomas, associated with others in the purchase and settlement of Hadley, where he died in 1665." [The date of his death here is an error, as Dr. Webster was subsequently convinced, and should be 1661, as appears from the records at Hadley.]

Governor Webster had four sons and three daughters, of whom Robert, the eldest, the principal devisee and sole executor of his will, and commended in his will for "his discretion and faithfulness," settled ultimately upon the old homestead in Hartford, where he left by his wife Susannah, a sister of Governor Robert Treat, five sons and four daughters, the progenitors of a numerous family of Websters in this town and in East Hartford. Robert lived for many years in Middletown, and frequently represented this town in the General Court. His will, 1676, is on our Probate Records, as is also that of his wife Susannah, 1698. He was one of our selectmen in 1672. The late venerable Dr. Noah Webster, of New Haven, was a lineal descendant, through this Robert, from Governor Webster, and took much pains to compile a genealogical table of the family, particularly of his own branch, a copy of which is now lodged among the archives of the Connecticut Historical Society. From this, as well as from other papers politely loaned us by Wm. G. Webster. Esq., and received from the hands of the Rev. Dr. Bacon of New Haven, from whom a valuable memoir of Dr. Webster may be soon expected, it appears that the Governor's son, Matthew, settled in Farmington, and died there leaving a son John—that the Governor's son William, who with his brother Thomas received his father's lands at Hadley, married Mary Reeves in 1671, resided in Hadley and died there in 1687 or '88, probably without children—that the Governor's son Thomas married Abigail Alexander of Northampton and settled ultimately in Northfield, Mass., from which place he was frequently compelled to flee on account of Indian disturbances, but where he died in 1686, leaving several children and that of the Governor's daughters, Anne married John Marsh of Hadley, Elizabeth married William Markham of the same town, and Mary married a Mr. Hunt, the ancestors of the Hunts in Northampton, and became, by the marriage of her daughter Mary with John Ingersoll of Westfield, one of the ancestors of the Ingersolls in Connecticut. For all these children, as well as for several grandchildren, Governor Webster made specific provision in his will, leaving to some pecuniary legacies varying from ten shillings to seventy pounds, and to others lands and houses as well as money, and to his wife Agnes "a bed and comely furniture for the same," as also "his house and lands at Hartford, all the profits of the same during her natural life." He seems to have possessed quite a handsome estate.

The family of the Websters, descended from the Governor, is very numerous and is now widely scattered—a thousand currents from a parent lake. Those interested in their ancestor, being in Hartford or visiting our city, should not fail to take a look at the spot where, in his new and "wilderness world," John Webster first and for many years lived—down in the street we have heretofore christined at Governor's Quarter, the present Cole street.

Here upon the east side, upon a home lot of two acres, nearly upon the spot on which now stands the barn of Peter D. Stillman, Esq., was the dwelling house of the old Governor. His next neighbor on the south was Governor Welles—his next neighbor on the west was Governor Wyllys—his two nearest neighbors on the north, save one, was Governors Hopkins and Haynes. On the east the wigwams of a tribe of peaceful Indians crowded the meadow. The Great Oak "gnarled and unwedgeable," whose destiny to preserve the Royal Parchment delineating those rights which he assisted to establish was then to him unknown, he could see from his front door. The pinnaces that now and then bore down the Long River for trade with the Bay the skins of beaver and otter and the fox, and those which glide with Masons lusty and memorable freight of war when the light of the Pequot race went out, and those which ever and anon, with corn and powder and balls for the Fort at Saybrook, spread a spare canvass to the valley winds, these were all in sight to him as he stood upon his stone-step gazing east. And here upon the green sward "round about," fed his milch cows and cropped old Billy, his horse, ready for the pillion, and gambolled his goats and kids. And here too

> "When nature pleased, for life itself was new,
> And the heart promised what the fancy drew," gambolled also our ancestors perhaps Visitant, the Governor's children, sunshine in each little breast, the heart's light laughter on their lips spite of the news that then often "chained their wondering ears" of infant innocence a prey to the tomahawk. Can you not picture the family, reader? But we must leave them. Ere we do though, let us see them as the day is over and they are preparing "to go to bed." Burns will tells us how they appeared:

> "The cheerful supper done, wi' serious face,
> They turned round the ingle formed a circle wide;
> The sire turned oer wi' patriarchal grace,
> The big ha'-bible, 'ance his father's pride;
> Those strains that 'ance did sweet in Zion glide,
> He waled a portion wi' judicious care,
> And 'Let us worship God!' he said, wi' solemn air."

GENEALOGY.

Family of John Webster.

John Webster, the progenitor of a large family of that name in Connecticut, was from Warwickshire in England. He was one of the original settlers in Hartford, and one of the founders of the republic of Connecticut. From the formation of the constitution in 1639, to the year 1659, he was chosen to office, and as a magistrate or judge, he assisted in administering the government, from 1639 to 1655, when he was elected deputy governor, and 1656 governor. In the three following years he was chosen first magistrate.

In consequence of a long controversy in the church, of which Mr. Stone was pastor, (for an account of which, see Trumbull's History of Connecticut, Vol. I. Chap. 13,) John Webster and his sons, with a number of their friends, determined to purchase a large tract of land in Massachusetts, and remove with their families. The agreement for this purpose was dated at Hartford, April 18th, 1659, and signed by fifty nine persons, belonging to Hartford and Wethersfield, including one or two from Windsor. The tract of land which they purchased included the present towns of Hadley, Amherst, South Hadley, and Granby, on the east side of the river Connecticut, and Hatfield and a part of Williamsburg, on the west side. John Webster's name stands at the head of the list of subscribers; the agreement is also signed by Robert his son. This agreement is recorded on the records of Hadley.

In the same year, 1659, the signers or some part of them, entered upon the work of preparing for settlement in Hadley. John Webster went probably to assist or superintend the laying out of the roads, and other business, but he lodged in Northampton. There he was taken sick, and made his will, which is dated June 25, 1659. This will is recorded on the probate records of Hampshire county, and a copy of it now lies before the writer. It is witnessed by John Russel, Jun. (minister of Hadley,) and Eleazar Mather, (minister of Northampton.)

Mr. Webster recovered from that sickness, and was appointed one of the judges of the court, or as he is called, a commissioner. The judges of the court were John Webster, John Pynchon and Samuel Chapin. The court was held alternately at Northampton, and at Springfield. On the 26th of March, 1661, a court was held at Northampton, and Mr. Webster was present, and he with others took the freeman's oath, before Mr. Pynchon, and Mr. Holyoke, who was recorder. But Mr. Webster died on the 5th of April, and undoubtedly was buried in Hadley, according to a direction in his will.*

John Webster's consort was named Agnes, and as her husband by will gave her the use of his house and lands in Hartford during her life, it is probable that she remained in Hartford after his death and died there. The house of John Webster stood on the east side of the highway, running north and south on the east side of the hill on which stood the house of the late George Wyllys, and his house was nearly east of the Wyllys house.

It appears by John Webster's will and by other documents, that he had four sons, Robert, Matthew, William and Thomas, and three daughters. Matthew is first named in the will, but Robert was probably the eldest son, as he was named sole executor, and received the largest portion of the estate.

Matthew settled at Farmington. His name is not among those of the eighty four original proprietors, who formed a company for settling in Farmington in 1645. But by the records it appears he was there in 1650, and from that year to 1671; when, being unable to support himself, William Judd and John Woodruff undertook to provide for him and his son John, during their lives. In compensation, Matthew Webster conveyed to them two parcels of land. It is not known when he died. †

There was a Thomas Webster also, who owned land in Farmington in 1650; but whether he was the son of John, hereafter mentioned, is not certain; if not, nothing further of him is known.

* Noah Webster, when he resided in Amherst, erected a monument to his ancestor in Hadley burying ground.
† Extracts from the records of Farmington, communicated by Samuel Richards and Horace Cowles, Esquires.

John Webster, by his will, gave his lands in Hadley to his sons William and Thomas. William married Mary Reeves in 1671. He resided in Hadley, and died there about the year 1687 or '88, and probably without children. His wife, Mary Reeves, was accused of witchcraft about the year 1684—5, and her testimony was taken and sent to Boston. She however died in peace in 1696.

Thomas Webster, the son of John, removed to Northampton, where in 1663, he married Abigail Alexander, and by whom he had three children, Abigail, George and John. He sold his lands in Northampton, and purchased lands in Northfield, and removed to that town about the year 1673. In 1675, Northfield was attacked by Indians and the settlement broken up, and from 1676 to 1682, Thomas Webster resided in Hadley, where he had three daughters born. He afterwards returned to Northfield, where he died in 1686. Northfield was again destroyed by the Indians, and the settlers driven from the place; but the children of Thomas probably remained in that neighborhood, for I have known one person of that name, Ezekiel Webster of Northfield, who was in the house of representatives of Massachusetts with me in 1814, and I knew another in Bernardston.

One of John Webster's daughters, Anne, married John Marsh of Hadley, and died June 9th, 1662. Another married William Markham of Hadley, who afterwards returned to Connecticut. A third daughter, Mary, married one Hunt, but she died before the year 1659. She left two children, Jonathan Hunt, the ancestor of the Hunts in Northampton, and Mary Hunt, who married John Ingersoll of Westfield, from whom have descended the Ingersolls in Connecticut.*

Robert Webster was probably the eldest son of John. He was chosen to represent the town of Middletown in 1656, 1657, 1658, and 1659. He was sole executor of the will of his father, and probably did not remove his family to Hadley, or if he did, he returned to Hartford very soon. He died in 1676, and a copy of his will dated May 20th, in that year, (taken from the records in Hartford,) witnessed by Thomas Stedman and Phineas Wilson, is now before the writer. He gave all his estate to his consort Susannah, during her widowhood. She remained a widow till her death. Her will is dated January 23d, 1698. In this she bequeathed her estate to her five sons named, and to the

WILLIAM WHITING.

WILLIAM WHITING, one of the early settlers of Hartford, is mentioned in the histories of this country as early as 1632 or 3. Between 1631 and 1633, "The Bristol men had sold their interest in Piscataqua, to the Lords Say and Brooke, George Wyllys and William Whiting, who continued Thomas Wiggin their agent, &c." Mr. Whiting retained his interest in Piscataqua till his death.

He was "one of the most respectable of the settlers in 1636"—"one of the civil and religious Fathers of Connecticut," a man of wealth and education, styled in the records "William Whiting, Gentleman." In 1642 he was chosen one of the Magistrates; 1641, Treasurer of the Colony, which office he retained till his death. In 1646 "a plot was laid by Sequasson, Sachem of the Naticks, to kill Governors Haynes and Hopkins and Mr. Whiting, on account of the just and faithful protection which these gentlemen had afforded to Uncas. The plot was made known by a friendly Indian and the danger averted."

He bore the title of Major in 1647.

William Whiting died July, 1647.*

[His widow, Susannah, married, 1650, Mr. Samuel Fitch, of Hartford, by whom she had two sons. Mr. Fitch died 1659, and she married 3. Mr. Alexander Bryan, of Milford. She died at Middletown, at the house of her daughter, Mrs. Collins, and was buried there July 8, 1673.]

LIVED HERE 48 YEARS.

Funeral of Mrs. E. C. Wilson Held Last Friday Afternoon.

The funeral of Mrs. E. C. Wilson, whose death occurred Wednesday, was held in the church of Christ on Friday afternoon. The service was conducted by Rev. S. Walton Fay in the presence of a large assemblage of old friends and neighbors. The body was laid to rest in the Masonic and I. O. O. F. cemetery.

Sarah Ann Wilson was the youngest child of a family of twelve born to Frederick and Mary Myers of Lock, Knox county, Ohio, and was born on the 27th of November, 1839, and resided with her parents until 1862, when she married Edward C. Wilson, and for a period of years they lived near the old home. In the year 1864 they removed to Springville, Iowa, staying there but one year. They again picked up stakes and went to Morely, Jones county. It was during their residence here that joy came into their home by the birth of Elmer, their two previous children having died in early infancy. Mary Elizabeth died in January 1863, and William H. died in 1865. In the year 1870 they came to Poweshiek county and for fourty-eight years Mr. and Mrs. Wilson have gone on in and out doing their business very quietly and winning deep respect as neighbors and friends.

On November 15, 1915, Mrs. Wilson fell and broke her hip, and owing to her advanced years a cure was impossible and for a period of thirty-four months she had been a permanent cripple, unable to walk alone. During these long months she has been lovingly and carefully attended by her husband and life long companion, and her son and daughter, Elmer and Della Wilson. She was a patient sufferer and gave many proofs of her christian faith, often helping those who came to help her. Beginning with the recent spell of hot weather she gradually failed, and though she rallied a few days as result of Dr. Williams efforts, she slowly but surely turned towards the setting sun and when the call came to "Come up higher" at 12:15 on Wednesday she peacefully passed over with a smile at the age of 78 years, 8 months and 17 days. Her husband and Elmer and Della accompanied her to the "borderland" as did also Mrs. Sadie Mahon and Mrs. Frederick Elginfritz.

Mrs. Wilson leaves to mourn her loss a husband, Edward C. Wilson, a son and daughter Elmer and Della Wilson; an adopted son E. M. Wilson, of Fordville, N. D.; a sister-in-law, Mary Jane Myers, of Centerburg, Ohio; six grand-children, twenty-eight neices and nephews in Kansas, Chicago, Ohio, Clinton, Iowa and Montezuma.

At the age of 15 she confessed her faith in Christ and became a member of the Church of Christ and continued in that holy fellowship until 1898 when she joined the M. E. church to which she has remained a regular attendant until her accident. She will be missed by a large and loving circle of friends and neighbors.

"So she passed from earth and its toiling
Only remembered by what she has done."

Services for Mrs. Edith M. Wilson were held at the Steffy Funeral Home Monday afternoon, April 19, with the Rev. John Darlington officiating. Mrs. Kathleen Ramsey was the organist.

Burial was in Jackson Township Cemetery. Casket bearers were Bill Bolen, Ron Hedrick, Charles Sheets, Ron Peck, Dave Fisch and Dennis Watts.

Mrs. Wilson, 87, died Saturday, April 17, at University Hospitals, Iowa City.

The daughter of Charles and Susan Cram McWilliams, she was born at Deep River on Aug. 6, 1894. She graduated from Deep River High School in 1911. On June 5, 1912, she was married to Clarence Wilson at Deep River. They farmed near Deep River until 1935 when they moved to Brooklyn to operate a restaurant. They moved to Montezuma in 1938.

She is survived by 2 daughters, Mrs. Harold (Ora) Murphy of Hedrick and Mrs. Mary Johnston of Montezuma; 5 grandchildren, Michael Murphy, Molly Cramer, Mary Capps, Dennis Johnston and Diana Dawley; 11 great-grandchildren; 3 sisters, Bessie Fahrney and Margaret Hollingsworth, both of Des Moines, and Vida Johnston of Iowa City; and a brother, Robert McWilliams of Deep River.

Her husband died Feb. 10, 1974. She was also preceded in death by her parents and a brother, Orrie McWilliams.

OBITUARY

Elizabeth Dunville was born in Lancashire, England, April 18, 1829. She removed to Huddersfield, Yorkshire, England in 1832 and from there to America, locating in Macoupin county, Ill., in March 1841.

New conditions, the change of climate, and the death of her father in 1842 caused the family to become separated. She went to Scott county, Ill., to live with friends where she became acquainted with John W. Williams whom she married January 8, 1846. Of this union six children were born, two of whom Sarah Jane and Hardin Logan, died in childhood. Those remaining are Mrs. M. A. Latham and George T. Williams of Searsboro, Iowa, Mrs. L. W. Morgan, Fullerton, Neb., and Mrs. Z. M. Chapman, Rock Rapids.

In the fall of 1854 she came with her husband to Poweshiek county, Iowa, and settled on the farm near Searsboro.

In the fall of 1864 her husband died near Savanuah, Ga., on Sherman's march to the sea, thus leaving the care of the family to her.

In 1866 she removed to Grinnell, Iowa, to educate her children where she has made her home ever since.

She joined the M. E. church in 1848 and has held membership in the same ever since, being a member of the M. E. church at the time of her death. She was always a consistent, enthusiastic and faithful church worker.

She died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. M. A. Latham, Searsboro, Iowa, August 17th and the remains were interred in the Forest Home cemetery beside those of her sister and daughter.

Her only remaining sister, Mrs. J. D. Holme of Savannah, Mo., was present at her death. Besides her children, grandchildren and friends, her nephews Dr. E. Holme, Tarkio, Mrs. and Dr. F. W. Bechly, Guthrie Center, Iowa, and her niece Miss Mary Bechly, Guthrie Center, Iowa, were in attendance at her funeral.

Obituary.

Edmund C. Wilson was born at Canestro, New York on the 29th day of January, 1942, residing there with his parents until he was 14, at which time he removed with his parents to Centerburg, Ohio. Here he grew to manhood, winning the respect of his fellows by his genial urbanity. It was here he was united in marriage on February 20, 1861, to Sarah Ann Myers. To this union was born one daughter, Mary Elizabeth, who only lived 2 weeks, two sons, William who died at the age of 18 months and Elmer who survives.

At the close of the Civil war, Mr. Wilson removed to Morley, Jones county remaining there on the farm until 1872 when he removed to Montezuma in Poweshiek county. In the year 1902 he returned to Springville, Ohio; remaining until 1905 when he came back to Montezuma. He made this trip in the old fashioned manner, a covered wagon drawn by a team horses. During his residence here he was a good citizen, a friendly neighbor, and a man his fellows loved to greet.

On August 14, 1918, his wife, companion and helper left him to go to the other side. This has proved a burden and trial from which he never fully recovered his mental pose. Re-

Tuesday, in the very early hours he crept out of the home, scantily attired, determined to see the new hog house. In going he must have slipped and his weakened condition prevented his getting up. When his son, Elmer found him at six o'clock, he was dead from the exposure to the cold.

His sudden departure proved a great shock to his son and daughter, his relatives and his numerous friends. He was aged 80 years, 10 months, 20 days. He leaves to mourn his going a son, John Elmer, his wife, Della, one adopted son, E. M. Wilson of Oslo, Minn., and six grandchildren, besides numerous nieces and nephews. Two sisters, Elizabeth Rolleson, Ohio; Mrs. D. N. Straw, Westerville, Ohio; nephew, John A. Wilson of Des Moines; niece and nephew, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hays; a sister in law, Martha Wilson, Montur Falls, N. Y.; J. O. Wilson, Dickens, Iowa.

The funeral was held Thursday afternoon at the Christian church, conducted by Rev. Fay of New Sharon.

"Dear Lord, when my spirit shall return to thee, hear the trees I love, let my body be buried, that this dust may rise and rejoice among the branches."
Dear Lord and Father of mankind,
Forgive our foolish ways.
Reclothe us in our rightful mind,
In purer lives our service find,
In deeper reverence, Praise.

DIED FROM EXPOSURE

OLD SETTLER IN POWESHIEK WANDERS OUT INTO COLD

Monday night sometime Edmund C. Wilson, over 80 years of age, who has made his home with his son John E. Wilson in the southeast part of Montezuma got up from his bed and wandered out into the cold. He was found Tuesday morning early, dead from exposure or from paralysis. He had been ill for a long time and was in rather a feeble condition. Great care was taken to see that his every want was attended to but he managed to evade the vigilence of the household and got out into the cold which caused his death.

Mrs. Wilson heard him coughing some time in the night and called to him. He appeared alright and per-

ERNEST E. WILSON

Ernest Emerson Wilson, director of the General Motors Proving Ground since January 15, 1941, expired in the Ford hospital, Detroit, Saturday evening after an illness of six months. He had been in the hospital much of the time since June.

The body was brought to the Richardson-Bird chapel here to lie in state until Tuesday and following a memorial service at 1:00 o'clock his remains were started on the journey to Cedar Falls, Iowa, his birthplace and former home. Rev. Robert V. Woods of Milford Presbyterian church had the chapel service here and a large number of General Motors officials representing all divisions of the corporation were present. Services at Cedar Falls were held on Thursday afternoon and interment was in that city.

Mr. Wilson was 45 years of age, and was born in Cedar Falls on Sept. 25, 1898. After completing high school he attended Iowa State Teachers' college and the University of Wisconsin and he received his degrees in science. For two years he was in Virginia as a mechanical engineer for the National Aeronautics Committee, and in 1928 came to Detroit as a research engineer with General Motors Corporation. In 1936 he came to the Proving Ground at Milford as head of the newly established sound laboratory, and also became technical assista then assistant to the director and finally director of the Proving Ground.

Mr. Wilson was married on January 27, 1926, to Miss Frieda Powell at Montezuma, Iowa and she survives him. He leaves also his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Wilson and a brother, Harris Wilson. He was a member of several engineering societies, S. A. E., the Engineering Society of Detroit, the Institute of Automotive Engineers in England and his fraternal memberships included Black Hawk Masonic Lodge and El Kahir Shrine at Cedar Falls. He was a veteran of World War I, having spent eleven months in France with the signal corps of the AEF, and was a member of the American Legion.

Card of Thanks.

John Elmer and Della Wilson on behalf of themselves and other relatives desire to express to their friends and neighbors their deep appreciation for the sympathy spoken and in the beautiful flowers sent in remembrance of the death of their father. E.

disease to children, scarlet fever, and taken quickly. A short funeral service was held at the grave on Saturday afternoon. "Does Jesus Care" and "Come Ye Disconsolate" were beautifully sung by Helen Bradley and Louise Gillis. Rev. Lanning spoke words of comfort and helpfulness from Mark 5:39, and the little body was laid to rest, Jesus having called the sweet innocent spirit back to himself. The sudden death is an awful shock to the parents, whose loving hands, with medical attention and skilled service, did all that could be done to keep her from death. She will be greatly missed in the home, by mother and father and the twins, James Lewis and Mary Louise, and by the little play mates of her grade at the school.

"A form we loved is gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
The place made vacant in the home
Can never be filled."

Card of Thanks.

We take this means of thanking friends and neighbors for the kindness, expression of sympathy and floral offerings; the basket of provisions, and the helpful service given us during the time of our great bereavement in the sickness and death of our beloved daughter, Wilma.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Instead of the usual schedule of Sunday services we will have a combined meeting of the Sunday school and church, with the following schedule next Sunday and special attention is called to it.

Sunday school assembly, 10:15.

10:25 to 10:40 class period.

10:40 to 10:55, Assembly for Review of school, this being Quarterly Review. Sunday school attendance report and introduction to worship and preaching service, with special numbers of music by juniors at this time.

10:55 to 11:45 worship hour, preaching by pastor. All are earnestly invited to attend all the way through, but exact time is specified so that you can attend the hour possible to you. Special music by the regular church choir will be rendered during the hour.

Our Christmas program Saturday night was well attended and greatly enjoyed by all present. Those who had part in the program surely gave us a real treat. The collection for India was the largest ever given, that the far away child hood of the world might also have the knowledge of the Christ child.

Every child present was given a treat, besides other gifts, whether they belonged to our school or not.

SHARSBORO

Edgar Easter of Oskaloosa spent Christmas at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ed Evans.

Mrs. John Graham Jr. was taken piece of board which flew up and penetrated its body some twentyone inches.

Alvin Vermace and Norman Bope arrived from College to spend the holiday vacation with their parents here.

The Cong'l church held their Christmas program Saturday evening.

The program was fine and Santa Claus arrived on time and made the little folks happy. "Merry Christmas"

CARNFORTH.

Mrs. B. F. McClellan spent Thursday aftrenoon with Mrs. Rachel Wheeler of Brooklyn.

Mrs. M. E. Martin spent from Saturday until Tuesday with her sons in Belle Plaine.

Nellie Leeper of Newton came Saturday for a visit at the Jake Slaymaker home.

Mrs. Emma Showalter and grandson, Richard Ringler of Grinnell came Saturday for a visit at the Jim Tuttle home.

Mr. and Mrs. Lem Bird were Cedar Rapids visitors Saturday.

John Mercer is home from Ames for the Holidays.

The Geo. Lyman family spent Christmas at the Lloyd Connell home.

Mr. and Mrs. Lem Bird and Charley spent Sunday at the Jerry Bird home near Chelsea.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wallick spent Thursday near Belle Plaine at the Wm. Crissman home.

The proceeds of the bazaar and supper at the the church Friday night amounted to $28.50. On account of muddy roads not a very large crowd attended but the ladies wish to thank all who in any way gave them help with the supper, etc.

Last report received from George Lyman who is in the Mercy hospital at Iowa City states that he is getting along fine and hopes to be home soon.

Description:
This database is a compilation of burial records from a variety of sources and cemeteries. These records provide information on the burials of U.S. veterans and their dependents who were buried in the various Veterans Affairs (VA) National Cemeteries, state veterans cemeteries, or other military cemeteries. Because the information regarding the burials is compiled from multiple sources, the amount of information provided for each burial will vary. Some of the information you may find in this database includes: name of deceased, birth date, death date, interment date, burial location/site, cemetery name, cemetery address, relationship to veteran, veteran service dates, military rank, and military branch.
